Assignment 4: Final Project

Meeting the specifications: My website meets the interactive functionality aspect of it. I have included jQuery-UI widgets, plugins, ajax and json. I have also implemented the accessibility principles of links, forms, images, and heading numbering.

Feedback summary: My website was critiqued on not having a footer included and fixing my navigation element. I kept the navigation element as is because the style fits with what the website is about. I added a footer which includes social media outlets and what the company is about. He also recommended that I center my logo, which I did.

My client liked the website. He enjoyed the “happy customers” element as well as the “frequently asked questions” element. He liked the rustic look of it and feels like that really defines what his company is about. I have talked to my client and he believes that this might be a website he’d like to go with for the future of the company.
